

WICKED PROBLEMS

PHIL 144, Section 1
TR 12:00-13:15
Dr. Riana Betzler

Some problems are WICKED HARD! They defy definition, constantly shifting shape. They are multifaceted. They cut across multiple disciplines. They have multiple stakeholders. They are URGENT!

In this class, we will study examples of wicked problems that affect our lives today:
climate change, pandemic, food insecurity, social injustice, political division, technological opacity. . . .

We'll figure out what makes wicked problems so hard and how we can solve them!
